ELECTION
EDITION

EDGE

PDC 30 has a significant stake in the results of the 2022 Primary Election held on Tuesday, June 28th. A mainstay of Collar County politics, PDC 30 endorsed several candidates over the last year who have built strong campaigns for the Midterm Elections. This Special Issue is about those candidates and PDC 30's longstanding reputation for fighting hard to see that its members and their communities are represented by elected leaders who protect our livelihoods and care about working families. Learn more about the candidates PDC 30 hopes to see on the ballot this Fall.

PDC 30 Fights Hard for Labor-Friendly Candidates

PDC 30 is a well-known hub of election activity in the Illinois Collar Counties, the region that surrounds the population-heavy Cook County. Known to many for its iconic sign along Route 88 near the exit for Orchard Road, PDC 30's headquarters enjoys strong visibility among labor unions in the building and construction trades; and, near both Primary and General Elections, PDC 30 is a vibrant gathering place for "get out the vote" efforts.

"We may not be the largest union in Northern Illinois, but we've become known as a group that fights really hard to elect labor-friendly candidates, particularly in the Collar Counties," says Ryan Anderson, PDC 30's Business Manager/Secretary-Treasurer. "This activity is key to protecting our ability to collectively bargain, to maintain a 'prevailing wage' for public sector construction work, to build up our apprenticeship programs, and preserve our benefit funds, so we can keep our families healthy and have financial independence when we retire."

As it has for many election cycles, PDC 30 encourages its members to focus on the issues that are most relevant to their livelihoods. The Council connects early with candidates and shares its vision for a partnership between labor unions and local, state, and national leaders that focuses on community and economic development; job creation that guarantees fair wages, strong healthcare and pension benefits, and investments in apprenticeship and training; and supporting every individual's right to unionize and collectively bargain.

"When those candidates we've gotten to know win, we win, because we've spent months teaching them about our concerns and what they can do to help us keep our members working and earning good wages," says Ryan. "We support candidates who protect our livelihoods, how we provide for our families, and make our union as strong as it can be."

"When those candidates we've gotten to know win, we win, because we've spent months teaching them about our concerns and what they can do to help us keep our members working and earning good wages. We support candidates who protect our livelihoods, how we provide for our families, and make our union as strong as it can be."

Ryan Anderson, PDC 30's Business Manager/Secretary-Treasurer

"It's so easy to get distracted from what matters most," says Beth Penesis, PDC 30's Director of Governmental Affairs, who manages PDC 30's candidate endorsements. She reminds members that political commercials and media pundits will pound audiences with messages about issues that divide voters. "That's what they do, because it gets people riled up, but we must remember what happens when anti-union leaders take power, how quickly they crack down on collective bargaining, begin cutting the programs that help working families, and reset the economy to the advantage of the wealthy."

This means reminding members, for example, about the 793 days Bruce Rauner refused to sign a budget, and all the state construction work that grinded to a halt during that time. It means reminding members of the billions of dollars in tax relief the Trump Administration gave to corporations and wealthy individuals, while working families struggled to provide for their families. And, it means reminding members that it was Pritzker in 2019, and Biden in 2021, who passed massive infrastructure packages – in both cases within a year after they took office.

What candidates say during Primary Elections tell voters a lot about them, as they seek to prove to their political parties that they are the most conservative or the most liberal. It's during this time that unions work hard to educate their members about the practical consequences of victory by labor-friendly candidates versus anti-union candidates.

"Everyone has the right to vote for who they wish, and everyone should vote if they can," says Ryan. "We just ask our members to think about the policy agenda of candidates, because they don't all care about working families. Ask where they stand on access to, and affordability of, healthcare, and what they have to say about collective bargaining rights, apprenticeship and training programs, infrastructure spending, retirement income for working people, and immigration reform. Asking these questions is how we put our livelihoods first."

Alexi Giannoulas for Illinois Secretary of State

PDC 30 was one of the earliest union organizations to endorse Alexi Giannoulas for Illinois Secretary of State. “For a year we’ve been standing behind this campaign, and we are as excited today as we were a year ago about this candidate,” says Beth Penesis, PDC 30’s Director of Governmental Affairs.

“Building and construction trades see a lot to like about Alexi,” says Beth. “He’s got experience leading an executive branch office and a track record of keeping working families at the center of his thinking when setting policies and reforming processes. We’ve learned a lot in recent years how necessary experienced pro-labor leaders are to protecting the gains won by Illinois’ labor unions.”

“Alexi is a proven ally of working families in Illinois,” says Ryan Anderson, PDC 30’s Business Manager/Secretary-Treasurer. “We needed to act decisively and early to signal our intention to work hard to elect Alexi in 2022, a strong supporter of working families and an advocate for what is best for Illinois communities.” Alexi, says Ryan, “has the resources, organization, and support” to prevail both in the Primary and General Elections.

“Something we really like about Alexi is that he listens,” says Ryan. “He engages us directly with questions about what we can do together to help Illinois’ communities thrive.” PDC 30’s endorsement also recognizes Alexi’s commitment to restoring trust between government and the people. Ryan explains: “There are many ways this important state office and its agencies can help working families see the good side of government, and the importance of electing pro-labor leaders in Illinois. We want to support a leader who looks out for the welfare of the majority, not just the wealthy and powerful.”

“I’m honored and incredibly excited to have earned the endorsement of PDC 30 and I will stand strong with their members who comprise their nine local unions in suburban Chicago and in Northern and Central Illinois,” Alexi said. “I will advocate for them and fight for all Illinois workers who want nothing more than the opportunity to earn a fair wage, receive affordable healthcare and build a better life for their families. I will amplify their voices in Springfield and ensure they get heard.”

PDC 30 Local 607 Member John Penney Runs in Winnebago County

Through an impressive record of public service, John Penney has become well known in his hometown of Rockford, Illinois; now the 22-year member of the IUPAT, former PDC 30 Representative, and current IUPAT General Representative is seeking a seat on the Winnebago County Board. Running as a Republican for the District 9 seat, John has no Primary challenger, so he is guaranteed to be on the ballot in November.

If elected, John will bring to his role 17 years of expertise in negotiations, which will surely help bring the Winnebago County Board to budget agreements that will move the region forward. His other priorities include, according to him, “reducing crime, securing funding for better roads, and creating good-paying jobs for our residents.” His experience in the construction industry makes him an ideal advocate for infrastructure investments in Rockford, including the continued development of the Rockford Airport (which is in District 9). He is also focused on public safety, providing front-line county employees the training and resources they need to succeed in law enforcement and public safety.

John has a long record of volunteer service. He served on the Northwestern Illinois Building and Construction Trades Council including as Vice President of that alliance of 17 craft unions. As a member (and Vice Chair) of the Rockford Area Visitors and Convention Bureau Board of Directors, John works with the business community to increase visitor rates in the Rockford region, with the goal of making the region a premier overnight visitor destination. He has also served as a member of the Presidents Circle for the Rockford Area Economic Development Council, helping further the organization’s mission of creating and retaining quality jobs and improving the overall business competitiveness of the region.

John is committed to creating pathways for education and to the special role that athletics can play in personal development for children and teens. He is a founding board member who helped create programming for the United Way’s “Success by 6” organization, which works to increase childhood literacy and has distributed over 120,000 books to area children since 2010. He is also the founder and Club Director for the Rockford Heat, a traveling girls basketball club affiliated with the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU). To date, this organization has helped more than 110 young women connect with college coaches and earn over $8.5 million in free education. He also coaches basketball at Rockford Lutheran High School.

John is proud to have the support and endorsement of many of the community and business leaders who help make the Rockford region a better place to live, work, and play. “PDC 30 has always supported John Penney’s public service work, because he points his attention and influence toward good causes and seizes opportunities to create work and good jobs in construction,” says PDC 30 Business Manager/Secretary-Treasurer Ryan Anderson.

What is a Primary Election?

Political parties use primary elections to select candidates and narrow the field of competition for elective offices ahead of a General Election. No one who wins in a Primary Election on June 28th takes office due to the votes in that election; to take office, candidates must win in a General Election scheduled for November 8, 2022.

Primaries are party-specific, meaning registered voters request either a Democratic, Republican, or Libertarian primary ballot, and this permits them to select the persons they wish to see become a party's nominee in the General Election. Under the law in Illinois, voters in a Primary Election can only cast one ballot that lists the candidates for one party.

Illinois is an "open" primary state, which means voters are free to stick with or switch parties from election to election, and selections in the Primary Election do not affect how a person may vote in any future elections. That means, for example, if you request a Democratic Primary Ballot, you will only be able to vote for Democratic candidates either running unopposed to become the nominee of their party, or running against one or more others to become the nominee of their party. Candidates will only appear on the one ballot of their declared party.

THERE ARE FOUR WAYS TO VOTE IN THE 2022 PRIMARY ELECTION:

1 VOTE BY MAIL

If you are a Registered voter,* you may request a mail-in ballot to vote by mail. You must fill out the form specific to your election authority† to request a vote-by-mail ballot. This may be done online, and the last day for your election authority† to receive an application to vote by mail is June 23rd (earlier is better). Once you receive the ballot, it must be postmarked and returned by mail no later than June 28th (earlier is better). Request a Vote-by-Mail Ballot from your election authority† here: www.elections.il.gov, under "Voting by Mail."

2 VOTE EARLY

Registered voters* can vote early in person at designated locations within your jurisdiction† between May 19th – June 27th (start dates of early voting may vary by county). Find early voting locations, dates, and times in your jurisdiction† here: www.elections.il.gov, under "Information for Voters," "Early Voting/Grace Period Registration Locations."

3 GRACE PERIOD REGISTRATION & VOTING

You can register to vote AND submit your vote from June 1st – June 28th through the Grace Period Registration program. Two forms of identification with at least one showing your current residence address are needed when you register in-person. Find grace period registration and voting locations in your jurisdiction† here: www.elections.il.gov, under "Information for Voters," "Early Voting/Grace Period Registration Locations" (enter jurisdiction† and a list of locations will appear below).

4 VOTE IN PERSON ON JUNE 28TH

Polls are open from 6am - 7pm on Election Day. Each voter must vote at their designated polling place. Find your designated polling place here: www.elections.il.gov, select "Polling Place Locator."

* May 31st is the last day you can register to vote in person at the offices of an election authority; however, you may register online up through June 12th by going to <https://ova.elections.il.gov/>, and you can register AND vote at the same time through Grace Period Registration (see number 3 above) between June 1st and June 28th.

† An election authority may also be referred to as a "jurisdiction," and is typically the county you live in, but it may also be your city (such as in the case of Chicago). Drop-down menus will allow you to select your election authority. If you have trouble finding your election authority, contact the County Clerk for the county you reside in, or the Board of Elections for your city (if applicable), and ask them to help you.

PDC 30 2022 Primary Election Endorsements

U.S. SENATE

Tammy Duckworth (D) – Incumbent – no primary opponent.

ILLINOIS EXECUTIVE

Governor: JB Pritzker (D) – Incumbent – in his first year in office, worked with lawmakers on both sides of the aisle to deliver the Rebuild Illinois capital plan, a $45 billion investment in growing jobs and building an Illinois economy. With the federal Infrastructure Investment & Jobs Act, Illinois expects to receive at least an additional $15.8 billion to pursue additional critical investments in infrastructure, including bridges and water infrastructure. When COVID hit, Pritzker worked with construction trade unions to see that the work of Illinois' construction workers was deemed "essential." He put a stop to the systematic assault on collective bargaining in Illinois, raised the minimum wage to a living wage for all Illinois workers, eliminated the state's $17 billion bill backlog, and stabilized state finances (all three rating agencies improved the state's credit rating). Learn more about JB Pritzker at jbpritzker.com.

Secretary of State: Alexi Giannoulis (D) See Page 3 for profile of Alexi.

Attorney General: Kwame Raoul (D) – Incumbent – no primary opponent.

Comptroller: Susana Mendoza (D) – Incumbent – no primary opponent.

Treasurer: Michael Frerichs (D) – Incumbent – has earned a strong reputation for bringing transparency and accountability to financial reporting. During his time as Treasurer, he has diligently monitored investments to keep Illinois economically competitive, expanded access to higher education by improving college saving plans, and expanded tools to help seniors retire with dignity and families coordinate disability care for loved ones.

U.S. HOUSE

2nd – Robin Kelly (D) – Incumbent – no primary opponent.

5th – Mike Quigley (D) – Incumbent – no primary opponent.

6th – Sean Casten (D) – Incumbent – is a respected scientist and independent voice for the values of the middle class. In Congress, he advocates for sensible, commonsense solutions to addressing job creation and training, health care access, climate change, and economic development. When voting on the issues, Sean has voted in support of organized labor and working families 100% of the time.

8th – Raja Krishnamoorthi (D) – Incumbent – focuses on strengthening the middle class by supporting small businesses, investing in infrastructure, and protecting Social Security and Medicare. He knows our economy works best when it works for all of us. Raja has a 96% lifetime voting record on issues important to labor and working families.

9th – Jan Schakowsky (D) – Incumbent – no primary opponent.

11th – Bill Foster (D) – Incumbent – no primary opponent.

13th – Nikki Budzinski (D) is a close labor ally who has spent her career fighting for workers and middle-class families. As the Governor's Senior Advisor on Labor Issues, she led the charge to raise the minimum wage in Illinois. Nikki will fight to invest in early childhood education, lower healthcare and prescription drug costs, prioritize apprenticeships and skills training, and invest in mental health services.

14th – Lauren Underwood (D) – Incumbent – no primary opponent.

17th – Jonathan Logemann (D) is a veteran and teacher who is committed to expanding Veteran Affairs services and investing in education on all levels, including technical education and apprenticeship programs. He helped bring over 1,000 jobs to Rockford during his time as city Alderman, and he will advocate for similar job creation in Congress.

COMING ON THE NOVEMBER BALLOT:
WORKERS' RIGHTS AMENDMENT
YES to Illinois Right to Collective Bargaining Amendment: On the November 8, 2022 General

Election Ballot, Illinois voters will be asked to support what is widely referred to as the "Workers' Rights Amendment." A "yes" vote supports establishing a state constitutional right for employees to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their choosing to negotiate "wages, hours, and working conditions and to protect their economic welfare and safety at work," as well as other measures that will protect the right to collectively bargain in Illinois.

PDC 30 Ballot Guide

In order to vote for any of these candidates, a registered voter must first request a Democratic Primary Ballot, as each of the candidates listed below are declared Democrats seeking the Democratic Party nomination.* If you request a Republican or Libertarian Primary Ballot, you will not be able to vote for any of these candidates. For more information, see "What is a Primary Election?" on page 4. The U.S. Senate and Illinois Executive candidates will appear on all Democratic Primary Ballots in Illinois. The remaining names will only be on your Primary Ballot if you live in the district listed in front of their names.

Offices/Candidates in blue signify that they have a Primary challenger and you will be asked to vote for one; PDC 30 endorses the candidate named in the ballot guide to the right.
